Indiana University Honors Program

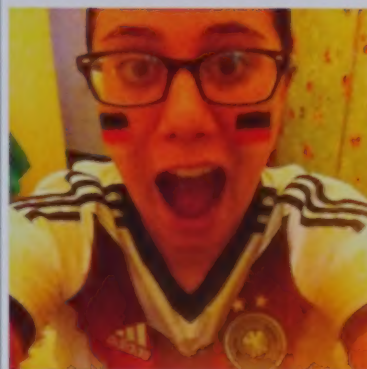

Sara Eveler, 12, went to Germany and said that the hardest part of her trip was speaking German completely and not a word of English. Sara also mentioned how she had to put herself outside of her comfort zone and experience new things to make sure she would learn as much as she could have while in Germany. Sara believes that you don't magically become amazing at your language, it is a very slow process. "Working hard and wanting to get better at the language is the key to having a successful trip."

STUDY. EAT. SLEEP. TOUR.

The IU Honors program is a foreign language program given by IU University in Bloomington in which students spend about seven weeks abroad in a country speaking only the native language...which means NO ENGLISH. The participating countries are: Germany, Spain, Chile, France, China, and Mexico. Being immersed in a different language and culture is the biggest challenge of the trip, but not fully participating could take away from the experience and not make the trip worthwhile. Students have to sign up and take a test to apply to the program first and then there is an interview before a student knows if he or she has been accepted into the program.

Sara Eveler, 12 Senior

Sara went to Germany and said one of the biggest surprises to her was the amount of the language she didn't know. She said she was thankful to be fortunate enough to get such a wonderful through the IU Program.

Amy Vanavermaete, Senior

Amy went to Mexico and said that it was a life changing experience and she learned so much about their culture and life style. She said you have to work hard and be patient in learning a new language.

Kennady Lower, Senior

Kennady had a wonderful time in Spain experiencing the language and culture. She recommends this program to anyone looking for an unforgettable experience!

Phoebe Lytle, Senior

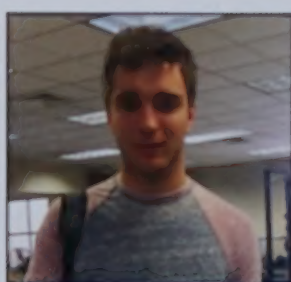

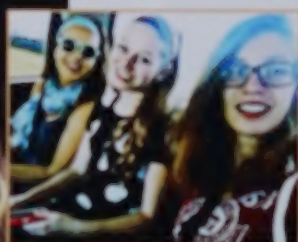

Phoebe said the hardest part of her trip was cutting all communication off with her friends back home. She also said the program helped her gain confidence in herself and her abilities.

Their American Dream

They are the bravest students you can ever meet. They left their country, their friends, their families, and they came to the far end of the world to experience a different culture. They didn't know anyone. They weren't yet comfortable with the language, but their desire to travel and learn transcended everything they feared.

Fall Festivities

June ~ July ~ August

This year, fall was full of pumpkin spice lattes, hayrides, haunted houses, carving & painting pumpkins and football.

Fall time is also football time. Seniors, Crystal Rocha and Rachel Jennings, supported the Notre Dame Fighting Irish on their opening game in September.

A group of Penn students went to the Rocky Horror Picture Show. A fun, fall festivity many enjoy around Halloween.

#TRENDS of Fall

1. Sweaters & Scarves

A trend at Penn this fall was sweaters and scarves. Oversized cardigans and maroon jackets were all the rave. To compliment the sweaters, scarves were just as necessary. The two items were a perfect match- and outfit- at Penn this year.

2. Lattes & Leaves

Always a classic of Autumn is the popular drink, the Pumpkin Spice Latte that Starbucks offers every year. While sipping a frothy latte, many students enjoyed the leaves changing colors. Everything seemed to be falling into place.

Back-To-School Advice

by Upperclassmen

“ The best advice I can give is to always stay positive and absorb everything you learn and do, because your time is now. So enjoy it. ”

Anna Howell, 12

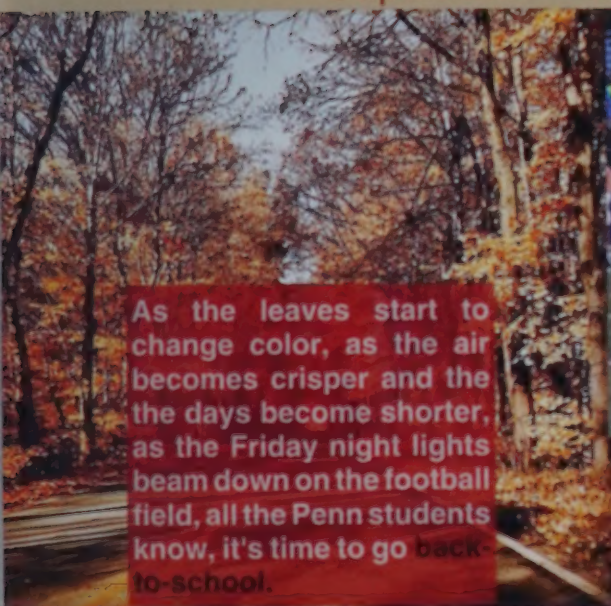

“ As once a freshman, I can say, change isn't easy. It's a challenging road full of self-doubt, regret, hard work, and determination. Although it gets tough, the best thing to do is to never give up on yourself! ”

Amanda Lercel, 12

...Hello Autumn

September ~ October ~ November

As the leaves start to change color, as the air becomes crisper and the days become shorter, as the Friday night lights beam down on the football field, all the Penn students know, it's time to go back-to-school.

We are Penn High...

The halls were bustling with energy as more and more students filed in. Sunshine Hallway bathed the school with the crisp, morning sun as the Kingsman stood guard tall and proud in the Commons. These were the images and senses on the first day of school. Seniors felt nostalgic as they attended their last, first day of school. Freshmen showed nervous but excited faces as they navigated through their first day of high school. Sophomores and Juniors attended their classes with experience and expectation. However, no matter what grade, we all have Penn pride and memories to last a lifetime because once you're a Kingsmen, you're always a Kingsmen.

Tricks & Treats

The snow certainly didn't stop us! During Halloween, many Penn students participated in holiday excitement. The photos below are only a few awesome and funny costumes donned by students.

The 2014 football season was one we won't soon forget. The Kingsmen dominated their conference with a 9-0 undefeated season that earned them another Northern Indiana Conference title. The boys had several notable wins, especially over Penn's biggest rival, Mishawaka. With a final score of 21-12, it was the closest win of the season. The boys continued to triumph through Sectionals against Chesterton (41 - 6) and Regionals against Merrillville (42 - 6), securing the Sectional and Regional Championships with ease. The season came to a crushing, startling end at the Semi-State game against Carmel. It was a nail-biter at 13-14. Overall, it was a remarkable season for these players. They gave it their all during every game and can hold their heads high! #PFBforever

Freshmen/JV Football

A Golden Season

P-E-N-N

Let's

Go

PENN

"P-E-N-N, let's go Penn" and go they did. The Junior Varsity team did well this year, ending a promising season with 6 wins and 1 loss. The freshmen team also made Penn proud as they began their football journey with perseverance and pluck. The freshmen were excited to get on the field and get dirty every Tuesday night, and they have pushed their way up to becoming a powerful varsity team in the near future. JV also played hard under those Wednesday night lights. Both teams concluded with a golden season and lots of effort that definitely paid off.

Rising Players

Michael Steward, 10

"I was excited to be on JV this year because I knew it would improve my skills for Varsity in the future."

Lucas Robinson, 10

"Our team really was super close and that was good because it made us a stronger team."

This freshman tackle made by Matthew Godson-Chukwuma, during the Valapariso game was just one golden moment the JV team celebrated this season. The JV team triumphed against Valapariso, their first game of the season.

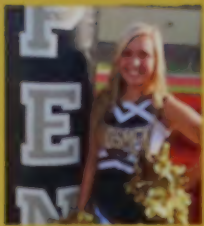

Freshman kicker, Grant Wilson, kicked off the game against Washington in October. By the final seconds, Penn came out victorious. This game was just one freshmen game that made Penn proud.

One of the best games for the freshmen this season was the victorious, golden game against Washington. A great catch and tackle is depicted here.

Varsity Cheerleading

THINK PINK-

October is the month of breast cancer awareness. Breast cancer has impacted many at Penn, and so to show support to those who are fighting, those who have survived, and to those who just know someone who has been touched by this disease, Penn cheerleaders use pink pom-poms and wear pink bows at October games.

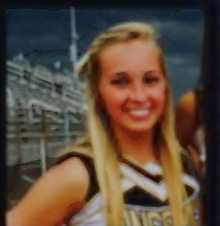

"I like cheering on my brother for his senior year and cheering with my best friends on the sideline."

In the fall of 2014, the junior varsity cheerleaders supported both the varsity and JV football teams. Throughout the summer and fall, the girls suffered through bumps, bruises, and other minor injuries but nothing stopped these girls from cheering loud for the boys. Led by coach Kristen Reynolds, the girls made memories they will never forget. The JV cheerleaders helped lead the boys to a great season!

The freshmen cheerleaders started out their season in the summer of 2014. Coach Christine Kruk taught these girls what it truly meant to be a Penn cheerleader. These girls learned basic skills and stunting techniques that led the girls to look good throughout the season. They used all their spirit to lead the freshman boys' football team to victory.

At every competition and even at state, it didn't matter about gold, silver or bronze because the Marching Band already had Hearts of Gold.

MARCHING BAND

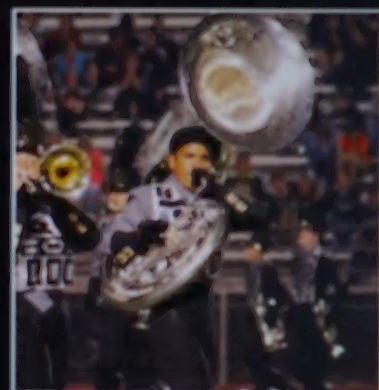

It's (not) all fun and games.

The Penn Marching Band of 2014-2015 is back and better than ever. With over two-hundred and thirty hard-working musicians, they managed to gather every Tuesday and Thursday without fail, and practice for at least two and a half hours. This year, the Marching Kingsmen placed 9th in the class A division of the Indiana State School Music Association's marching band finals for their show, "Anima Ex Machina." This robotic show demonstrated man vs. machine as each member took the field dressed as a robot. The highlight of the Kingsmen's season, however, was the incredible opportunity of performing at Disney World in November, where "Dreams Come True." As per usual, the drumline continued to fill the halls with Penn Pride every Friday morning, drumming excitement into the student body.

"It's all fun and games until you realize, it's not."

Senior Aly Abel and Emily Kramer starting to toss their rifles.

Kathrine Iuston sticks it out to the end of the third movement.

The 2014-2015 Color Guarders have been hard at work before the school year even started (along with the Marching Band). Practices for these dedicated performers began at eight in the morning to five in the evening for three months starting in the summer and continuing into the school year. When school began, they would meet directly after and practice until needed. In the beginning of November, they trekked down to the Lucas Oil Stadium in Indianapolis for competition. The ladies all have made so many of their best friends in this program. With friendships being forged comes many "sayings." For example, Shelby O'Neal said "If you're not listening, you're wrong," "that's interesting," "point your toes," and finally the most heard "SMILE!" Seniors in Color Guard suggest that incoming Freshmen at least try out even if they think they might not like it because you can always learn. They also confess the worst experience is performing or simply practicing in heat.

Boys' Varsity Soccer

The pride you gain is worth the pain.

The Kingsmen varsity soccer team played a remarkable season with a record of 10-9-0, and in the NIC conference, their record was 5-3. With grit and perseverance, the Kingsmen completed their season on a high note winning the South Bend Sectional scoring 3 - 1 against Mishawaka and then clobbering Riley 3 - 0, clinching the Sectional Championship. Under the leadership of team captains Andrew Ivaldi and Justin Stahl, the team focused all their energy and determination on the regional match-up against Saint Joseph's High School. However, victory was not meant to be, and the team fell to Saint Joe 0 - 2. Although this is not how they envisioned their season ending, the Kingsmen still showed class by supporting each other, facing challenges head on, and finishing with a stronger attitude and passion for the game.

Cameron Marsh, top, says that he loves to hang out with his teammates. "The game was very intense and when I'm done, I go over my mistakes". Samuel Atkins, second photo, plays center defense- mid field and he loves to win. They have a pasta party before each game which he loves. Evan Mercurio, bottom photo, said his teammates are like his family and he loves blocking shots. Being a goalie is a huge responsibility.

Teamwork makes the dream work.

The fall season kicked off with goal setting. Coach John Lord emphasized that while winning is always important, "I also want my players to grow as men and I think we accomplished that this season." The JV team played a 14-1-1 record, playing hard to the last seconds of each game. Coach Lord was extremely proud of his players. Few junior varsity teams have inspired so much hope for the future as the 2014 Boy's JV Soccer squad.

The JV soccer team showed promise in their tenacious group of underclassmen. The boys began practicing over the summer and continued to practice everyday after school throughout the year. Teamwork and dedication helped the boys persevere throughout the season, fighting though pain and fatigue as well as learning how important it is to work together.

Hayden Hurn, freshman, plays right wing. He began playing soccer at age five and has loved it ever since. "I didn't know my team that well when I began, but by the end of the season, we have grown really close." Hayden loves working together to achieve a goal. "This is the greatest sport in the world. It's simple--you kick a ball at a goal, but it is so complicated because there are so many skills needed to do that. There's no stopping except at halftime to catch your breath. The only thing holding you back while you're playing is your own endurance and creativity."

John Graham, sophomore, says "Soccer is truly a sport where no matter how good the other teams are, you always have a chance of winning. It takes a lot of skill to play. There's no feeling like slamming the ball in the back of the net from 20 yards out. There are so few goals scored that every goal is special and is reason to celebrate."

Alex Dobbins, sophomore, played defense. He loves his team and says they are a huge family. He loves playing because he can be on the field for 90 minutes and not have a coach tell him to run a play. You are free to be creative and think to yourself. He enjoys the adrenaline rush that he gets from fighting for the ball, but it requires teamwork and tactics and is truly a beautiful game.

Samuel Atkins

"When I watch professional soccer I just want to be able to do the things that they do and I wanna go out and practice so I can get better."

RJ Stewart

"It was a fun season, it went well, but we could've had a better season, we just didn't perform the way we should've at times."

Micah Craig

"My whole family plays and my dad coaches and they all inspire me to play my best everyday."

Kickin' It To Victory!

The soccer season was as easy as kicking a goal for the varsity girls' soccer team. Attempting to beat the undefeated Kingsmen, the Mishawaka Cavemen tried, but failed to score. At 5 to 0, the game was officially dominated by the Lady Kingsmen. Scoring against Adams 4 to 1, the girls beat the Eagles without ever breaking a sweat. The season had a record to beat going into regionals. The St. Joe game went as planned with a score of 1 to 0 that left the girls walking off the field with another win. Unfortunately the loss against Goshen 2 to 1 prevented the girls from advancing. With a spotless season record, our Lady Kingsmen fought hard and showed what we're made of.

Always together, Girls Varsity Soccer stands tall and proud after their win against Adams. Hard work and dedication led to success for Meredith Mangus, 12 as she takes on the ball. Hannah Michael, 11 braces herself for the oncoming ball. Jensen Stroinski, 11 runs to catch the ball, while Mackenzie Wood uses all she has to defend her goal.

More than teammates, the girls are able to share quality time together, both on and off the field.

"Success isn't given. It's earned on the track, on the field, in the gym. With blood, sweat, and the occasional tear."
~McKenzie Blankenbaker, 9

Sophomore player, Sam Nichols, said that practices for the girls' soccer season began the week after school let out last year. Athletes conditioned for 1 1/2 hours in the morning and eventually moved to PM practices once school started again in August. Practices consisted of stretching lines, running laps, passing drills, and scrimmaging. Tryouts took place at the beginning of August and focused on a player's skill during a scrimmage.

Once the team was selected, girls got to work getting close as a team and honing their communication and supporting each other. Pasta dinners were a team favorite. This season was plagued with injuries, so the Lady Kingsmen really had to push themselves to make up for benched players. The season ended in October with an unbelievable record that the girls are very proud of. The girls have already set standards and improvements for next season; ready to work hard!

Penn Kingsmen

Ana Kruggel, 9, said that the first game of the season was very exciting for all of the players because they had been waiting to show off their skills since practices first started. Kruggel said that being together as a team all the time had helped them create a strong bond between each other and couldn't imagine playing soccer without them. Kruggel also said that it helped her create a core friend group starting off her freshman year at Penn.

"These girls have dedicated their lives to a sport they all love and work hard at it together."

Emma Daggy, 9, said that the most exciting part of the season for her was when she scored two goals in the same game. Daggy has been playing soccer since she was 9 years old. She also said that this season has helped her passing skills improve by practicing every day!

The season's outcome for PBT was one the boys could not complain about. They made it all the way to Semi State and fought until the end. Their dedication to the season made them better players on and off the court. Junior Stuart Feeley said, "We had a great season, I'm going to miss the seniors but can't wait to make another post season run next year."

This year there were six seniors on the varsity team. Together they helped lead their team to a 23-1 record. The boys won the N.I.C, were champions at Sectionals and Regionals but ended their season with a bittersweet loss at semi-state. However, the entire tennis team made Penn proud! The boys LOVED all their wins and support they got from the student section, their parents and each other. They ACED the competition and made this year the best it could be.

Each senior had been on the team for four years and their final home game was bittersweet for them all. However, they had a lot to be proud of with a golden season of 23 wins, defeating their number one rival and breaking their own records. All of the players can look forward to their tennis futures. After all, their time is now.

This year was a building year as the Lady Kingsmen golf team found themselves with new coach, Dominic Demeter, after previous coach, Jim Garrett retired. Without skipping a putt, Coach Demeter seamlessly picked up the first week of August where Coach Garrett left off. The girls met at the driving range at Blackthorn Golf Course over the summer to hone their skills, and once school began, they showed discipline and perseverance, practicing every day at Knollwood with tournaments taking place Wednesday evenings and weekends. This year's team was considered "young" with five new golfers and two freshmen; however, the girls set high goals for themselves and rose to the challenge by exceeding their expectations of a strong performance at Sectionals and advancing to Regionals. Cassidy Jurkaite, 11, swung her way to state in early October and was named to the all state team.

Finding Their Happy Pace

Evans, Matt

The Boys Penn Cross Country team started off their season at the NIC Stomp coming in 2nd place. The Varsity is comprised of seven runners, and at each meet the top five are scored. The ultimate goal is for the top five runners to beat the other team's top five. The same goes for the Junior Varsity team, which has won nearly every race they ran this season. The boys dominated at the regional meet at Oxbow, allowing them to advance on to semi-state. They got 7th at Semi-State, Fort Wayne.

Cross Country is One Hill of a Sport

The Lady Kingsmen dominated the board this season. With new personal records and goals met, the girls' cross country team was unstoppable. This season provided many victories for the Kingsmen, including a 3rd place ranking at the Culver Invite, and 1st place wins at the New Prairie Invitational and Sectionals. When asked about their incredible win at sectionals, Senior Frankie Spring said, "Winning always feels awesome...but we have our sights set on even bigger victories to come." And bigger victories came their way indeed. The girls traveled on to Regionals on October 18 and took home yet another outstanding victory. The Seniors left their mark on Penn High School, running out with a bang, complete with a record-breaking win at Semi-State and an unforgettable 4th place finish at the State competition. With fantastic stats and persistent teammates, the girls had a great season that they will surely not forget.

Q: What words of advice would you have for an aspiring Cross Country runner?

Nichole Fuller, 12

"[It] may seem like we run a lot. Once you get used to it, it's not as bad as it seems. Don't let the running get to you."

Frankie Spring, 12

"It's important to challenge yourself and give your best effort in practice, but many talented young athletes stress out needlessly over their sport. Do your best, but remember to chill out and have fun along the way."

Laine Hertel, 12

"Don't believe that you can't do it, because you can do it. Running is the easy part. It's overcoming mental aspects [that is a] challenge."

Madison Woods, 12

"Don't judge your run by the first 5 minutes. Things are easier towards the end than in beginning"

According to the energetic, powerhouse players on the Lady Kingsmen volleyball team, the most memorable part of the season would have to be the time spent in the locker rooms, cranking up music, singing, and showing off their dance moves in order to get pumped up before a game. This pre-game ritual resulted in high energy, fierce attitudes, and an appetite for demolishing the opponent. They all agreed that this sport is so more than a team—it's a family. This team had such a strong bond having the time of their lives when they were together. They have endured significant challenges this year, like when Coach Hendricks was injured and was out for a weeks, but they made the best of their situation, and it brought them closer together. They have finished this season a much closer team than when they began. When asked about what she will remember most about this year's team, Coach Hendricks responded, "This year I had three seniors, who have now been with me four years, and I am sad to see them go. We were a young team that really came together and improved throughout the year. I am so proud of how much progress we made, and I look forward to watching these young ladies grow in the upcoming season."

Sophomore Maddy Wiseman said that her favorite part of playing volleyball is winning because they have developed such a strong chemistry that they can sense each others' next moves, and they used that to win. Junior Josie Engdahl said that the most memorable part of the season was bonding with the team. "We are like a family."

Senior Talk:

Alicia Wolff

The thing that she will remember from this season was dancing in the locker room before each game.

Kassidy Meiss

Her favorite part of the season was being able to see her best friends everyday after school and their great singing sessions!

Sarah Ross

What she will take away from this season will be lots of good friendships and her leadership ability.

This year, the Senior Class of 2015 became the three time Powder Puff Champions, which is the only class in Penn history to do so. The seniors have made it to the championship game all of their four years but lost their freshman year in a close game against the Senior Class of 2011. However, through their Sophomore, Junior, and Senior years, the Class of 2015 showed increasingly incredible talent. Their success can be attributed to their expert guidance throughout the years. With the help of Coach Lucas Fry and Mrs. Keigley, this group of girls has kept up their skills through all four years. This year was Coach Fry's last year of coaching Powder Puff, and he ended on a high note making history with the first class to win three years in a row.

Senior Coaches for all four years:

Tryouts for the Fall Play began the second week of school. Students hoping to make a part read short scenes and had to walk in character. Once the cast was selected, work began on the original production of Joseph Andrews, however, after some controversy about appropriateness for high school, the play changed to Story Theater. Like good actors, students were flexible, so they switched gears, put different hats on, and got to work.

Daily rehearsals from 3:30-5:30 stretched into October, and before they knew it, it was opening night.

Story Theater was a collection of short, fable-like stories teaching lessons about greed, ambition, honesty, and compassion.

"Everyone should try theater at least once," Anna Ortega explained. "You get to connect with a lot of cool people and it is so much fun."

The Little Peasant

Andrew Galang and Lauren McCarthy play husband and wife in "The Little Peasant," a story about how the power of persuasion can lead to success.

The Golden Goose

In "The Golden Goose," three brothers venture into a forest to cut wood when they are asked by a little grey man, shown below and played by Anna Ortega, for food. Two of the brothers, played by Andrew Galang and Broderick Balsley, refuse, while the third brother, below, played by Jonah Wirt, obliges.

"A future of hope and happiness and love. Of dreams coming true."

On December 4, 2014, with costumes, make-up and many endless rehearsals, theatre shorts finally opened the curtains. Penn High students showed their endless talent in the two, one-hours shows. The triple threat actors put on a show only Penn High can produce. Original shows created and directed by Chase Andrea and Jasmine Stahl were creative and never before seen by the audience. Theater Shorts was a night that will never be forgotten both by the audience and actors.

Jasmine Stahl's, To Be Mine is a musical romantic comedy in which two people meet, and it's love at first sight. Through good times and hardship, this feel-good show revolves around the importance of love and family.

show on the road to the Indiana Thespian Society Regional at Bethel College on November 22nd, 2014. Broderick Balsley was awarded Best Leading Actor for his portrayal of Katurian, and Pillowman also placed first at the Regional. The play then went on to the state conference in Indianapolis on January 23-25, 2015. The cast and crew put on an unforgettable performance over the weekend, earning a standing ovation from the audience, and placed 6th overall in the state, with Amanda Burkhart being awarded Best Cameo. Overall, the show was a huge success and very rewarding.

What does having a heart of gold look like? Penn students have a number of opportunities throughout the year to demonstrate their desire to help mankind. One of the first events Penn participates in is the Northern Indiana Food Drive. In English 11-History Seminar classes, students explore the issue of food insecurity and devise ways to enlist the community to help combat this problem.

Ashlyne Connolly and Alle Castaneda are two of the seminar students who collected and carried over 21,000 lbs. of food.

One of the many perks of being a Penn student is the abundance of clubs available. We have had every club under the sun from Dance, Dance, Revolution, to Water Watchers, and everything in between. Academic clubs, like Academic Super Bowl challenge research and critical thinking skills. Athletic clubs, like iBall, provide students another opportunity to hone their physical skills. Some clubs are centered around a cause, like Amnesty International, or Handwritten Hearts, where students come together to send love to hospital patients. One thing they all have in common, though, is that these clubs are fun! There is something for every interest here at Penn, and if you don't see something for you, it is not hard to start your own club. So take a look. Find a club for you.

Big Brothers Big Sisters

The Big Brothers Big Sisters (BBBS) program is a rewarding experience and a great group to be involved in. Penn students are assigned little brothers and little sisters from other PHM elementary schools to hang out with and mentor once a week. This organization helps the "littles" feel more confident about school and have a positive role model to look up to, while Penn students get to set a great example for future Kingsmen.

Abigail Russell & her little brother

Caroline Hawley & her little sister

Emma Birkey & her little brother

There are a mix of juniors and seniors in Big Brothers and Big Sisters, all of who enjoy their task of being a great mentor to their little brother or sister. Cori Martin, a senior, explained that, "My favorite part of being in BBBS was being able to make a positive impact on the next generation."

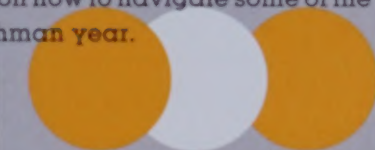

Freshmen Mentors

Walking into a school the size of Penn can be a daunting experience for a 9th grader. Fortunately though, we have designated friendly faces in the form of Freshmen Mentors. Freshmen Mentors is a program started by freshman guidance counselors, Mrs. Cronk and Mrs. Watkins, also known as "Mentor Boss Ladies." They began the mentor program seven years ago as a way to help Freshmen transition to high school and provide them with resources and advice to last throughout their high school experience. Sophomore, Junior and Senior mentors develop strong relationships with their mentees. The mentors share stories and lessons from when they were Freshmen, and the result is a more friendly, united student body. Once a week for all of first semester, mentors brought treats and shared their high school experiences while giving pointers on how to navigate some of the hurdles of Freshman year.

Mentor Boss Ladies, counselors Mrs. Cronk and Mrs. Watkins, have been leading the mentor program for seven years. Executive member, Siphwe Muze, enjoyed her third year mentoring.

Mrs. Watkins and Mrs. Cronk conduct a "Mentor Training Day," in which the week before mentoring begins, the mentors leave their study halls and get to know each other before getting to know their freshmen. This was one group that partook in the fun activities and bonding.

Senior mentor, Ryan Craker, and junior mentors, Brooke Conrady and Regan Stohler with their freshmen.

National Honor Society is student organization where members participate in volunteer and service activities. Along with that, members are academically inclined with the focus and determination to be involved. From running blood drives or tutoring classmates, these Kingsmen are definitely involved with their school and the community.

The NHS blood drive is hosted at Penn and brings in helpful donations to our local blood bank.

All the helpers and volunteers shown above participating in this year's blood drive.

Mrs Knight has been a sponsor for 7 years. Her favorite part of the club is working with students.

Student Council

WE MAKE THE GOOD TIMES HAPPEN.

Student Council is one way the leaders of Penn are able to make a difference in our school. From community service to organizing the annual pep rally, student council members are involved in the smallest aspects of Penn community.

The Penn Spell Bowl team annihilated the competition again this year, further establishing themselves as Indiana's fiercest, hardest-to-beat team. Under the steady leadership of Coach DeKever, spellers tirelessly practiced daily, cementing lists of words to memory. This unwavering discipline and dedication produced victory after victory as Penn spellers swept away the competition at the East Noble, Penn, Kouts, Logansport, and Benton Central invitationals. Penn also won its 17th consecutive regional championship at John Glenn High School with a score of 89, which was the highest of all 180 schools statewide. With concentration and confidence, they spelled their way to a perfect score of 90 at the state finals to tie with Martinsville as co-state champions. The team consists of eighteen spellers this year, with leading varsity scorers Disha Waghray, Max Kirsch, Chris Yun, Presto George, Michelle Tapp, and Faihaan Arif. Josh Rajkumar and Disha Waghray led the team as senior captians, guiding Penn to their 14th Spell Bowl state championship, more than any other high school in the state and the most of any Penn academic or athletic teams. It was also the third consecutive state Spell Bowl championship. They finished with a 78-0-1 record against their opponents this season, correctly spelling 714 of 720 words throughout their competitions. The Penn Spell Bowl team worked relentlessly all season long to achieve such a pinnacle of success.

The team celebrates with Coach DeKever at a reception in the LGI after school after winning their third consecutive state Spell Bowl Championship.

After tying with Martinsville with a perfect score, Ari Kirsch and Max Kirsch proudly display the State Champion banner.

Captain Disha Waghray drills teammates over words before the Kouts Invitational.

78 Spell Bowl

The Spell Bowl team visits this trolley every year after the Logansport competition. Kanika Arora says, "We're like a pack. We've created a bond with one another since freshman year, and it's just a really great group of people to be around." When asked how the season went she explained, "The season went well. There were some ups and downs, but we had a fun time together and ended up winning state with a perfect score."

The English team read the Aeneid and Metamorphosis. They also studied etymology, the study of word parts and their origins.

The Math team studied geometry and algebraic concepts relating to the architectural and geometric figures of Rome. This group advanced to the state competition.

Faith West, Diana Dimian, Ms. McKechnie, Arthur Hughes, Emily Latham, Meghan Corwin, Ms. Cravens.

To prepare for competition, the Fine Arts team, led by Ms. McKechnie and Ms. Cravens, focused their studies on mosaics, architecture like the Pantheon and Roman aqueducts, theater, sculptures, paintings and instruments used during Roman times.

3/16/15 Invitational - Fort Wayne

4/21/15 Regional - Mishawaka
5/9/15 State - Purdue University

The Social Studies team explored the history of Ancient Rome, culture, and geography of Rome. This team made their 20th consecutive appearance at the state competition.

The Science team explored the chemistry of glass, medicine of Ancient Rome, sewage treatment, aqueducts, and volcanoes.

Most of these scholars are on the other subject teams as well, which made the studying go a little faster. Their efforts earned them not only a spot at state, but a state championship as well.

Quiz Bowl

One of two coaches, Mr. Thompson, explains that quiz bowl is similar to a metaphor for life. "Buzzing in is kinda like a metaphor for how to approach life. Hitting the buzzers means do something and don't just sit back and wait." At Quiz Bowl competitions, there are four players on each team, and while each player is hesitantly raising their hand above their individual buzzers, the Quiz Master on their own team reads a question. If their team answers correctly, they are awarded ten points each time for a right answer. During bonus rounds, questions are worth thirty bonus points. "Before meets I like to do this weird ritual with mints. I tell my team to catch the mints and if one person drops the mint then we have to start all over again, once everyone has caught the mint then we are set for success. Not literally, it's just something fun I like to do," Mr. Thompson candidly explained.

Mock Trial

The Mock Trial team began practicing in November once the Indiana Bar Foundation released this year's case. Under the direction of Ms. Sauer, a former Mock Trial-er herself, students divided into lawyers and witnesses, memorizing minute details of the civil case in order to represent both the prosecution and the defense. The team competed in the Hammond Regional in February, placing high enough to advance to state, but then they had to spend a harrowing night in Hammond after a snowstorm dumped several inches of snow on the area. Twenty-two teams converged at the City-County Building in Indianapolis March 7th and 8th to battle it out in four trials for the state title and the chance to advance to Nationals. Coming off a state win last year, all eyes were on Penn. Adams swept the top three spots while Penn's team, "the Firecrackers" took 6th.

Practices can stretch through the dinner hour, so the group takes a break with a pineapple cake.

Meilyn McVeigh, Cori Martin, Maheera Siddique, Audrey Murray, Kaitlin Kelsey, Alexa Sucharetza, Ms. Sauer, Anton Singh.

The team accepts their award for 6th place at the awards ceremony in Indianapolis.

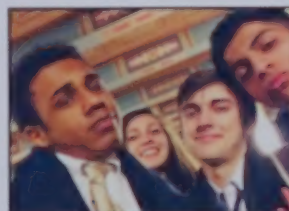

MODEL UN

Bringing students from all around the world together to accomplish solutions to real world problems.

Model UN is an extracurricular club where students roleplay as delegates from various countries. They imitate UN committees, trying to solve real world issues using the policies and perspectives of their assigned country. Upon registering for a conference, the team is assigned a country to represent. Each student on the team then researches that country and represents that country in a different committee focusing on different topics...like the spread of the ebola virus or nuclear disarmament. This year, Model UN traveled to University of Michigan in Ann Arbor in January and U of Illinois in Champaign in March.

"It was my first time doing a Model UN Conference so I was pretty nervous at the first committee session. I was the delegate for the United Kingdom in the Economic and Social Council(ECOSOC). The topics we discussed were transgender rights and food."

-Faadil Shariff

Speech

[speech]- (n) the faculty or power of speaking; oral communication; ability to express one's thoughts and emotions by speech sounds and gesture.

What have
Speech &
Debate taught you?

"Debate has diversified my beliefs...it really kind of broadens the spectrum, because normally you look at one side of things, but when you look at both sides, it opens things up for you."

-Shad Jeffrey, 11

"Debate has taught me to be able to speak better in front of other people and to form my own opinions and form my arguments. And be more confident about who I am and what I believe in."

-Zoe Gatzimos, 10

"I would say both Debate and Speech manage to mix competitiveness and fun and education and learning all really well. They all also open up your ideas and views on a lot of things."

Carter Martin, 11

Both headed by Mr. David Dutton, Speech and Debate clubs are two similar clubs that allow for students to compete and put their public speaking skills to the test. In order for a student to participate in Debate, they must also be enrolled in Penn's debate class; however, those who are enrolled in the class can choose not to compete with the team. They also meet outside of class on Wednesdays and have various competitions throughout the year. Speech is a whole different ball game, however, because they mainly meet after school on Tuesdays, yet students have the option of taking a speech class as well, but it is not required. Both teams did extraordinarily well this year with the Debate team placing 7th in the state, while three competitors from Penn's Speech teams went down to take part at the state contest.

2015 Penny Awards

Penn's Drama Club held their annual Penny Awards, the award show where theatre students award their peers with titles such as "Best Actor" and "Best Technician." They also inducted many members into International Thespian Society and awarded many students with letters and honor cords for their work in Penn's theatre program.

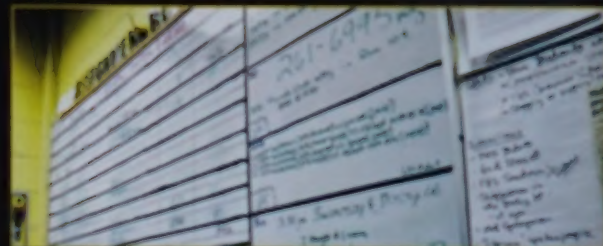

The event paid tribute to this year's seniors who took their final bow and recieved their standing ovation here at Penn.

PNN

People Need News

Penn News Network is a way for all of Penn High School to stay connected and informed with what's going on all around Penn. They post each broadcast onto their Facebook page, and their Youtube channel. The class teaches students how to anchor news broadcasts, edit shows, conduct interviews, hold cue cards, and many other skills.

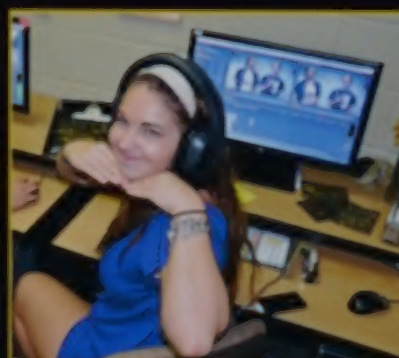

Question:

What's the most impactful thing that you've learned being in this class?

Lauren Nowakowski, 12

"The most impactful thing I've learned is leadership and confidence. When I first joined, I was a little shy compared to other students. This class got me out of my shell, and I'm more outgoing because of it."

Ashlyne Connelly, 11

"I learned more about my peers, teachers, and activities that all make up the Penn environment."

Ethan Sandock, 12

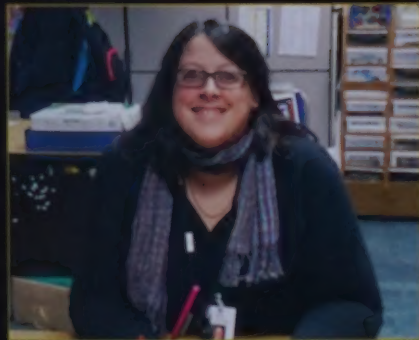

"PNN has given me a lot of confidence by way of strengthening my people skills, leadership responsibilities, and really what it means to be a part of a team that ends up being a family."

YEARBOOK

Making memories one page at a time.

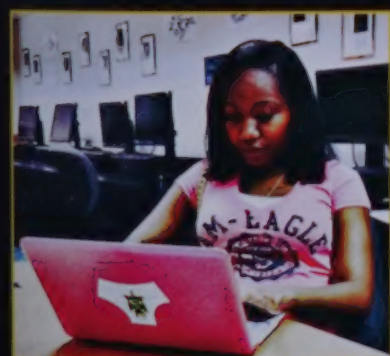

Ms. Armstrong is the new teacher for yearbook this school year. She had a lot to take on being the new teacher. She is rising to the challenge making this class possible.

The 2014-2015 yearbook staff was made up of 16 girls in 10th-12th grades.

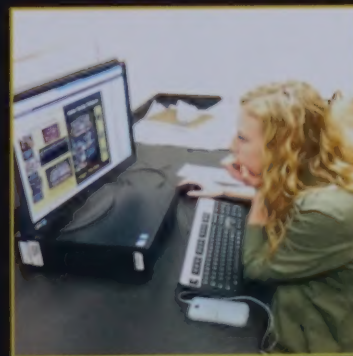

Senior TaMya Holifield spends her class time wisely finishing her spreads.

Sports Journalism Staff Changes the Game

Below: Group picture in Notre Dame locker room whilst on field trip to learn about covering athletics.

With over 3,000 followers on Twitter, Penn's newspaper, The Pennant, is taking news into the digital age. Under the guidance of Mr. Rallo, they primarily focus on sports statistics, offering real-time updates of all things going on at Penn High School. Pennant is a class offered at Penn for those interested in the world of sports journalism. The staff even traveled to Notre Dame earlier this year to learn even more about covering and promoting Penn athletics and providing quality coverage for Penn as a whole.

Spectrum staffers take writing very seriously, so seriously in fact, that the task of sifting through hundreds of submissions of student writing makes it necessary to take occasional fun-breaks. And by fun, they mean dressing up in vintage clothing, or balancing on scaffolds to display best first lines in the Sunshine Hallway. And sometimes, they just bury themselves in piles of paper to laugh and cry as deadlines go racing past. While this class is tremendously fun, Spectrum staff members do get a feel for what it's like working in publications and experiencing some of the stresses that come along with that. They conduct an annual writing contest called the Dried Ink Contest where winning entries in art, poetry, and prose are awarded Skittles and published in the magazine. The theme for this year's magazine was vintage film, which is reflected in the artwork for the Fall Edition cover and in the 1940's attire worn for their photo shoot. The film theme continued through the Spring Edition of Spectrum, as pieces of writing and art were categorized into different genres of film.

Robotics ————— TEAM 135

TEAM 135 IS THE NAME OF OUR FORMIDABLE ROBOTICS TEAM. THIS GROUP MEETS AS A CLASS DURING AND AFTER SCHOOL APPLYING PROBLEM SOLVING SKILLS AND WORKING WITH ENGINEERING AND DESIGN. EACH YEAR, THE TEAM IS PRESENTED WITH AN OBSTACLE TO OVERCOME OR A PARTICULAR THEME FOR A ROBOT THEY MUST CONSTRUCT. THIS YEAR'S ROBOT WAS NAMED ROSIE. THEY KICKED OFF THE YEAR LAUNCHING WATER BALLOONS AT THE PENN PEP RALLEY, DOMINATING COMPETITIONS ACROSS THE STATE, WORKING A ROBOTICS BOOTH AT THE MUSEUM OF SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY, AND PRESENTING DURING A STEM ACADEMY DAY. PENN ROBOTICS ALSO PERFORMED ON "SCHOOLS RULE," A SEGMENT ON WNDU. THEIR PASSION FOR PROBLEM SOLVING LED THEM TO ANOTHER STATE TITLE AND AN 8TH PLACE FINISH AT NATIONALS.

| In Action |

TEAM 135 HIT THE ROAD TO KOKOMO WHERE THEY TOOK A FIRST PLACE FINISH AT A COMPETITION AND ACCEPTED THE CHAIRMAN'S AWARD. A PRESTIGIOUS AND WELL-DESERVED ACCOMPLISHMENT FOR THE ROBOTICS TEAM.

THE PENN ROBOTICS TEAM TOOK HOME FIRST PLACE AT THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIP IN APRIL. THIS WASN'T THE FIRST TIME PENN HAS PLACED FIRST. AFTER A GREAT WIN, THEY WERE HEADED TO THE WORLD CHAMPIONS IN ST. LOUIS LATER THAT MONTH.

THE WORLD CHAMPIONS ARE HELD IN ST. LOUIS EVERY YEAR. THIS YEAR, THEY PLACED EIGHTH OUT OF ONE HUNDRED, WHICH WAS A STRONG FINISH FOR THEM. THEY MADE IT TO THE QUARTER-FINALS AT THE FRC WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS.

HAND OF GRACE

ROBOTICS IS OUR NAME...

PROBLEM SOLVING IS OUR GAME.

On May 27th, 2015, spring blossoms perfumed the air as a limo pulled into the Penn parking lot, greeted by 200 cheering onlookers and the flashing cameras of local media stations. The star of the evening was Grace Hildreth, a blue princess-gowned third grader at Madison Elementary who was the recipient of a prosthetic arm following a unique partnership between Grace, her family, and engineering, sculpture, broadcasting, and fashion students at Penn High School.

The initial task seemed daunting, but most problem-based learning is. There were more questions than answers. Questions like: What is a prosthetic arm made of? How does a prosthetic fit onto a limb? How does one design a prosthetic that will function like the actual limb? How many different moving parts are involved? How do these parts fit together? Guided by engineering and robotics instructors Josiah Parker and Jim Langfeldt, students began researching by pooling as many different resources as they could find. The process required collaboration between different teams as well as multiple visits by Grace and her family. Sculpture classes got involved by creating a cast of Grace's arm, so the engineering students could study how the prosthetic would fit. Gradually, plans began to take shape, and students began assembling plastic parts they created using 3-D printing technology.

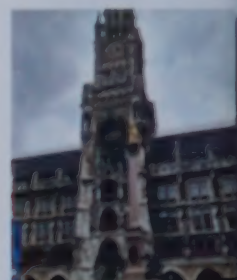

Meanwhile, PNN students were busy creating a documentary of the project as Mrs. Rice's fashion design students were using design concepts to create the dress Grace would wear to her special night. After several test fittings, everyone was nervous and excited for the big reveal.

One high point of the evening was hearing from Grace and her family about how she hopes to use her new hand. However, everyone that evening, as well as everyone involved with the most unique of projects, left with a gift.

Eighteen American students traveled to Hagen, Germany this summer for a three week study abroad program. There, the students attended school with their host family siblings, where they studied regular school subjects, but in German. They also travelled to Munich for a cultural experience.

Last year, the German host families visited South Bend, experiencing American culture and improving their English language skills. The Americans took their partners around the area and the Germans experienced Chicago on their own.

"Traveling to Germany has changed the way I see the world. I am now more open to trying more things and going to new places."

Foreign Language Clubs

We have many different foreign language clubs at Penn High School: German, French, Japanese, Chinese, and new this year, Korean. The purpose of these clubs is not just learning language, but also experiencing that country's culture. Students come together to learn and enjoy different aspects that contribute to a country's culture. They partake in tasting different foods, experiencing art and music, dressing in different cultural fashions, as well as making new friends and enjoying the company of others with similar interests. For some, these clubs link students to their cultural heritage, while for others, it is just about having fun. Either way, we are fortunate to have so many opportunities to explore different cultures here at Penn.

The French Club, led by Mme. Mitchell, meets once in a month on Thursdays. One of the fun activities French Club does is get together to watch movies in French with English subtitles. They also play games and enjoy French foods.

LEADERSHIP & NETWORKING

During the Fall Homecoming Tailgate, DECA members created an awesome booth in order to reach out to parents and students before the football game!

Kyle Cather, Roberto Fayad, Ethan Johnson, and Westley Blank got to meet with other high school district members at the District 2 Outing.

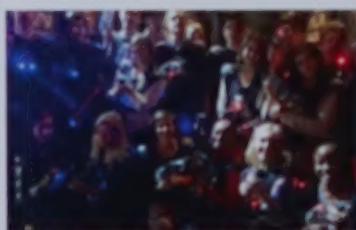

A group photo was taken after DECA members were having fun at the District 2 Outing. This outing gives members throughout District 2 the opportunity to break the ice and to participate in an egg toss and fun sports at a park.

I AM DECA

"I feel even greater this year. More people came out, which was awesome. Performance wise, I was able to bring up my test scores and quality for state. The confidence I had last year allowed me to do even better. Love DECA."
Sam Scholtes, 11

"Competition wise, I did not imagine that it would be so intense but I loved every second of it! The people and the club itself were a blast! I am sad that I just discovered DECA this year."
Justice Lawson, 12

SCDC

The State Career Development Conference (SCDC) in Indianapolis was an unforgettable trip for 69 of the Penn DECA members this year. This is the largest group that Penn has taken to SCDC thus far. SCDC is for students who placed fourth and higher at the District competition and for students with written presentations to compete at a state level.

Seven Penn participants achieved plaques that earned them spots at the International Career Development Conference (ICDC) in Orlando, Florida! (Left to right) Amani Hardriet and Siphwe Muze, Kendra Laidig and Kara Laidig, Manny Smith and Evan Shreiner, and Cassidy Jurkaites.

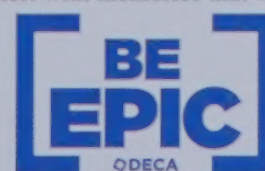

Amani and Siphwe are Penn's first female role play to compete at ICDC; Kendra is Penn's first freshman to compete at ICDC; and Manny and Evan are Penn's first male role play to compete at ICDC.

ICDC

The International Career Development Conference (ICDC) in Orlando, Florida was a remarkable journey for Mrs. McElwrath and 12 DECA participants. ICDC is for students who "slayed" at their state competitions and for students who were chosen to attend elite academies in Orlando. This small group is actually the largest group Mrs. McElwrath has taken to ICDC yet! They went to Disney World, Universal Studios and more. They also met with, and competed against, other DECA members from around the world. There were over 18,000 participants overall but Penn DECA still managed to leave its mark. These competitors left with medals and certificates for their high scores and achievements in the preliminary rounds. The group as a whole left with memories that will last them a lifetime.

Future For Agriculture

FFA used to stand for Future Farmers of America, but now it is known as Future for Agriculture. The purpose of FFA is to bring awareness to agricultural issues to those who may pursue a career in farming. This group participates in various exciting things throughout the year. One of their main priorities is entrepreneurship, so FFA makes and sells wood and fertilizer for local hardware stores. The group also raises poultry, donating eggs to local families in need. The best part about FFA is the animals and learning about all the different kinds of interesting breeds. "The one thing that many people don't realize is the amount of fun this group is. At the end of this year, we are all great friends! We also have fun get-togethers", explained Natosha Overholt. The number and types of students who participate in FFA varies, but everyone has the opportunity to have a leadership position, such as President, Vice-President, officers, reporter, chaplin, sentinel, and banker who all work to keep the organization running smoothly.

Dream Commission Society

The Smallest Acts of Kindness Make The Biggest Difference

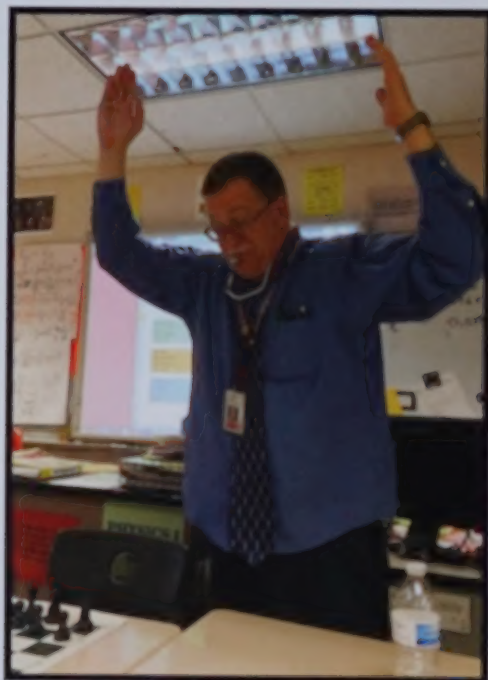

The Dream Commission Society changes one life at a time. From the annual Logan Center proms for children with autism to creating Easter baskets for children battling cancer, the Dream Commission Society attempts to bring a smile to each and every child who walks through the door. Senior Lauren Nidea, president and founder of the club during her Sophomore year, explained that volunteering with the society really makes a difference to many kids suffering with autism. Through this club, Nidea has been able to represent Penn High School multiple times throughout the years on the local news. Dream Commission Society will leave lifelong impressions for many children in our community.

Making Dreams

Chess Club

The Chess Club coach is Mr. Kistler, also referred to as K-Dog. He explained that he loved the dynamic group he acquired this year. "They are a diverse group who find comfort with each other because of the easy-going atmosphere and the game." -Kistler

Jason Reinoehl, 10, when asked what motivated him to be in Chess Club, said it was simply because he enjoys the game of chess.

Harrison Sills, 10, said that he joined Chess Club because he was new to Penn and wanted to join a club to help make friends faster. He said Chess Club has helped his transition to a new school.

Ryan Hall, 10, said the one thing he likes the most about Chess Club is that the people are very easy to talk to and make friends with.

Dakota Sandefur, 12, jokingly said the reason he joined Chess Club was because he lost a bet with his friends. But he really enjoys the strategies he learns from his opponents.

Chess is a sport. The main object in the game of chess remains the achievement of victory.

Ski Club

They'll show you their skills on the hills.

Ski Club is full of a bunch of fun-loving, free-wheeling spirits. Every Tuesday, this club left Penn shortly after school and ventured to Swiss Valley in Jones, Michigan, until around 10PM. For three months, students practiced their skills on the hills, freestyling, jumping moguls, and snow-plowing. They thoroughly enjoyed warming up by the fire in the lodge with friends and hot chocolate when the temperatures became frigid. "My most memorable and frustrating moments at Swiss were that every time I'd get off the lift, I'd fall over. I had so much fun over all," Ezgi Cemre Er explained.

Zak Tebell shared that he had a stellar experience during ski club. His favorite part was the tricks and jumps area.

Morgan Blank says " I like snowboarding but skiing is a lot easier. I prefer to snowboard because it's a lot more fun and exciting. Also, I would join ski club because its an awesome way to make friends and improve more skills."

Habitat For Humanity

Whatever good thing we build, ends up building us.

Why do you like sponsoring this club?"

"Personally I like the idea of Habitat for Humanity. I think teaching is more than just being in the classroom and part of that comes from working with students to better our community as a whole, and I do get to see students learn and become confident in things that normally you wouldn't expect them to encounter in a school environment."
- Mr. Gavin

Habitat has helped build many homes, but a lot of times, students don't get to see the homes from start to finish. Area companies donate money and materials for the construction of the home, and contractors and community members volunteer their time, but when extra volunteers are needed, Habitat for Humanity steps in and gets to work. They fill in wherever needed, picking up a paint brush, shingling a roof, or framing a backyard shed. They have definitely helped the community in more than a few ways. Megan Peffley, student leader in Penn's Habitat states, "I get to go and do something to help build a home for a local family, and it's nice because it's not a charity where you donate something and you never get to see who you help. All of the families involved have to put in sweat equity and pay a mortgage for the house they get, so the house isn't just given to them. So not only do we have to work for it, but we are working side-by-side with the new home owner. It's really rewarding!"

Caleb Davis

"It's really fun because you're helping out with building while chatting with friends and meeting new people who are really nice."

Megan Peffley:

"It really peaked my interest, so I joined my sophomore year, and ever since then I've been involved."

Chris Mead

"Habitat shows and teaches you a lot of new things that many could use in their lives."

Handwritten Hearts

I love how meaningful Handwritten Hearts is to the patients we give the letters to. It's great to know that what we're doing is making a positive impact on someone else.

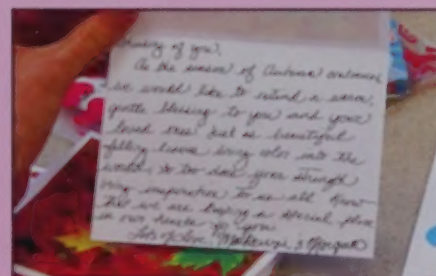

- Maura Johnson (Junior)

It's the little things that matter, and that is why we value delivering handwritten cards to patients.

- Morgan Ludwig (Junior- club president)

What is Handwritten Hearts ?

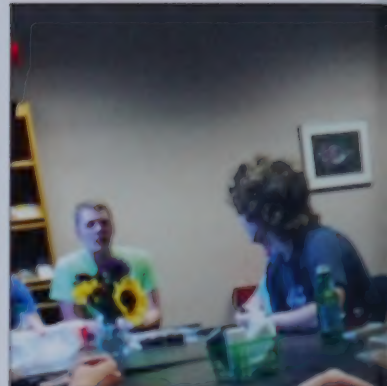

Handwritten Hearts is a non-profit, volunteer organization that works to spread acts of kindness through handwritten cards! Every month we handwrite letters to patients in hospital wards such as Renal, Oncology, General Surgery, etc. We deliver the cards with seasonal gifts through our incredible volunteers. We also work to create activity bags and holiday cards for pediatric patients. Overall, we are committed to spreading joy and happiness, from the heart!

Salt and Light

Salt and Light is a student run Christian Organization at Penn. The student leaders focus on small group connection and Bible study.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

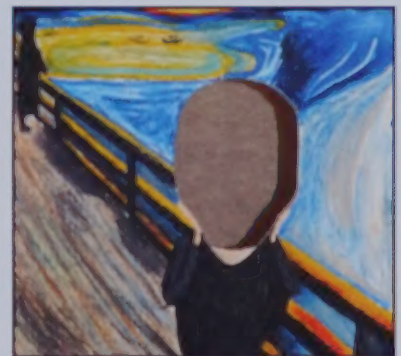

Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a group made of athletes who are followers of the Word of God. They attend meetings once every other week before school. They listen to 30 minute messages from speakers from different colleges, students, athletes, and sometimes teachers. Fellowship of Christian Athletes was created because Penn didn't have an organization dedicated to Christian athletes. FCA participates in events like the Silver Mile, by setting up bins for donations for all kinds of items to give to a local charities. Even though the club is called Fellowship of Christian Athletes, it is open and welcoming to everyone who wants to get involved.

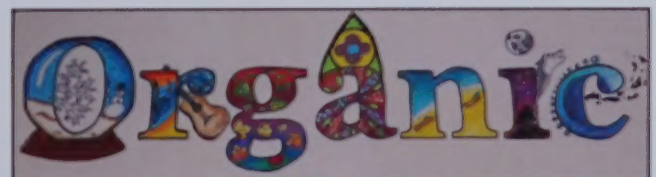

Art Club

Art Club is a colorful and free spirited environment. This club participates in community service opportunities like plastering bottles for the Silver Mile event or face painting at the Homecoming Tailgate or the Fine Arts Festival. Art Club also enters into different area contests. Mrs. Hope instills a sense of camaraderie and freedom in Art Club, and it is a bright, happy place to spend time after school. If you like meeting new people and working on community and original contest art pieces, this is definitely the club to join!

iBall

We have our own version of March Madness here at Penn. I-Ball is an intramural basketball competition where students create their own teams and play in a bracket tournament towards a final championship game. This competition is popular among students looking for a way to get out of the house during the winter months. This year's championship game was played by Louisville and New Mexico, with Louisville claiming victory.

I-ball MVP

I-BALL CHAMPIONSHIP:
Louisville 19, New Mexico 9.
Hunter Sexton scored 10 points. Jon Carter scored 7 points.

Kingsmen Against Cancer

Kingsmen Against Cancer is a club that collects donations and makes crafts and cards for children with cancer at Memorial Children's Hospital. We usually make themed crafts (turkey cards during Thanksgiving, flowers for spring, etc) and send them over with positive messages on cards. This was our first year of operation and it was very successful

TEAMS

Test of Engineering Aptitude Mathematics and Science

On Tuesday, April 14, 2015, 46 Penn TEAMS students competed at Trine University in the Test of Engineering Aptitude Mathematics and Science regional competition. One of the six teams placed first in the senior division.

Members of the winning team were Disha Waghay, Stephanie Tapp, Rachel Susler, Casey LeeVan, Rocky Villano, Molly Schragar, Julie Stevenson, and Paul Kwak.

Their solutions to the engineering problems will then advance to the state level competition.

TEAMS is coached by Becky Tagliaferri.

Key Club

Key Club seeks to serve others through volunteering and giving. Throughout the year, Keyclub spends their time working hard at concession stands, helping out on bingo nights at various places, and all other sorts of kindness. With a group of around three-hundred, this loved club is always busy sharing and spreading happiness all over the wonderful cities of Mishawaka and Osceola. Vice president of Keyclub, Lucy Bowers shares, "Helping others is my favorite part of this program. This is because of the amazed looks on people's faces after a full day of hardwork and of how grateful they are." While being in this club, you are required to accomplish twenty hours, ten organized by Penn and the other ten formed with what you would prefer. Another group member of the club says "the most difficult part of being a part of this is being open minded and making sure your heart is in it and being ready for anything.

We don't make keys, we make a difference.

Anonymous Advice for Incoming Sophomores

1) Study a lot. Take it seriously, it's a lot harder than freshmen year. Also, come to school.

2) Always bring a snack.

3) Bring tissues. You will cry. Bring food. You'll get hungry. Do your homework! It's harder than freshmen year.

4) Stay in school because if you don't, you'll end up illiterate, chubby, and living on the side of a road.

5) This year is fun, but is a lot of hard work.

Winter Wonderland

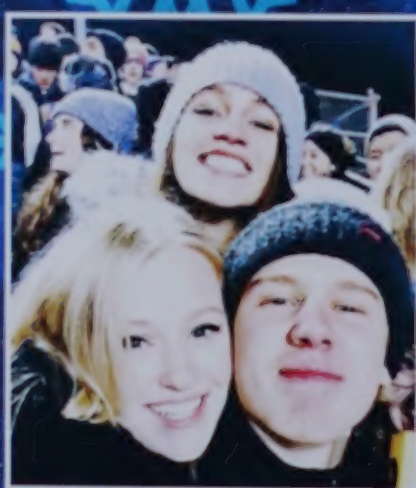

The endless snow kept falling, creating a frigid white blanket across the roof of Penn High School. Hallways were unusually quiet as students studied and took their end-of-course exams. Some students tested before winter break while some courses scheduled finals afterwards, which meant students would either be building snowmen or studying during the holidays. Winter sports were in full swing. Earning good grades was at the forefront of everyone's mind, and counting the days until Santa came was all the talk around Penn.

To make finals week a little less stressful, students participated in "Ugly Christmas Sweater Week." All Penn students were welcomed to join in the fun of wearing ugly sweaters the week before break. Many students participated and it generated a little excitement in the hallways before break. "I wore a sweater each day of the week. It got me in to the Holiday spirit," said Anna Howell.

Baby It's Cold
Outside

Rugby practice in the snow with a refreshing winter breeze!

Scarves were a must in the winter, both as a fashion statement and to keep warm in the frigid temps.

There were five snow days this year. Many students spent the day off outside with some snowy fun.

Some students stayed inside and away from the cold outdoors.

One student enjoyed the snow, while many just wanted summer.

Cheerleaders warmed up with coffee and jackets at one chilly football game.

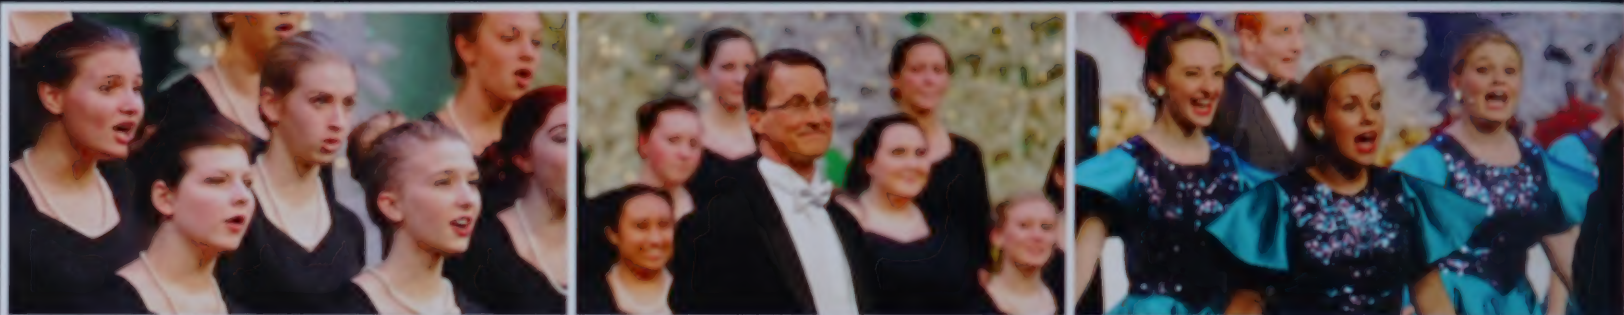

One student got extremely creative while making her snowman.

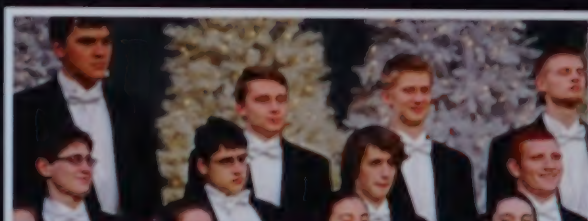

Blankets were cozied up with at the final football game.

Jazz Band

Penn also offers After School Jazz Orchestra called "ASJO". It is an available option for students who don't have room in their schedules to accommodate it during the day, however, still want to be involved. It is also an option for students who don't play a "typical" jazz instrument, such as trumpet or saxophone. Student Aris Hoath and alumnus Clay Quento direct this group.

There are three jazz bands offered at Penn High School. Advanced Jazz Band is the highest level. This group performs throughout the community at venues like South Bend Chocolate Cafe and at Concord High School for their Jazz Cafe. Intermediate Jazz Band musicians learn about jazz chords and the swing that doesn't come with classical music. Under the direction of Mr. Leather, these musicians at their annual "Jazz a la Mode!" concert show their golden Kingsmen class by dressing up with suits, ties, and cocktail dresses.

Eric, Grant, and Cristian entertain the audience with some fancy sax playing.

Jazz A la Mode offers a dessert bar for the spectators who came to show their support as well as enjoy an evening of good music.

Boys' Varsity Basketball

Camden Bohn- 11

The Boys' Varsity Basketball Team kept Kingsmen fans on the edge of their seats, playing an exciting and successful season with a record of 21-6. The Kingsmen rolled over Washington and Plymouth to take on a strong Riley team in the sectional championship; however, they ultimately fell short with a heart breaking final score of 69-74. The boys also battled against a tough Marian team and earned the title of NIC runner-ups. Members and leaders of this year's Senior class, Nate Miller, Billy Doslak, and Ryan Lutz set an all time career record of 71 wins.

This year was a building year as the Kingsmen had a young team of many juniors and seven seniors. But through leadership and Kingsman work ethic, the seniors set the tone and pushed everyone forward. Senior Nate Miller credits the team's growth this year to Coach Rhodes. "He's helped us a lot with not only being a better basketball player but becoming a better person. He's really a great role model for all kids and has helped me with everything over the last four years."

JV Boys' Basketball

Nothin' But Net

When asked about the season, Dominic Mares had to say his favorite part was "Drainin' threes and bruisin' knees."

"Having only 6 core guys was tough, but we came together for a great year."
- Brian Doslak

The JV boys basketball team showed some bright lights and promise this year with a winning record. Throughout the long season, these athletes honed their skills, grooming themselves for a varsity spot next year. Going into the future, the varsity team will be packed with talent, skill, discipline, and experience. The future of Kingsmen basketball is bright with these ballin' boys!

Get Your Head In The Game

The Penn Girls' Basketball team stormed the court with momentum and determination after last year's semi-state loss. Dominating the competition, this tight-knit squad scored their way to Sectionals, defeating Mishawaka. This is the fifth consecutive sectional crown for the Lady Kingsmen, and the fourth time that Seniors Lauren Ellenberger, Casey Morton, and Sarah Parcell have cut down sectional nets.

Girls' JV/C Basketball

Stay Humble, Stay Hungry

This year's Junior Varsity & Freshman basketball teams have been absolutely dominating. These two hard working teams spent countless hours in the gym perfecting their free-throws, defense, and full court play. The discipline and dedication showed, and the Penn High girls have been ranked 19-1. Throughout the season, the teams have grown very close with one another. The coaches have been there through thick and thin for all of the girls and have instilled a sense of family on the team. The girls attended several banquets and also met up with and mentored PHM middle school teams. The girls love to go and interact with the younger aspiring ball players because that shows them the true dedication that has been put into the team. "The hard work and dedication all pay off when the last buzzer sounds and you've defeated your opponents as a team because teamwork is everything," shared Janessa Chesnic.

Competition Poms

The Penn Poms' season for the 2014 - 2015 school year actually began spring of 2014. The girls wasted no time in training, having multiple practices during the week to work on improving their flexibility, increasing their stamina, and honing their dance skills. Throughout the summer, they persisted--jumping, kicking, and spinning their way through routines in preparation of performing for events this year. As they became more comfortable with each other, their movements became synchronized, and the hours of practice paid off with each flawless performance.

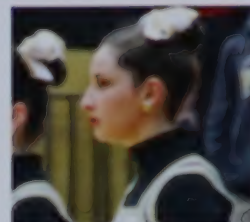

"My favorite memory from this season was when we had to stay overnight in a hotel after our Lake Central Competition on Valentines Day. We really came together as a team and made the best of it and made it fun!"

Sara Brumbaugh, 12

"My favorite memory from this season was making funny jokes with the girls. It was our way of bonding."

Taylor Szabo, 11

"My favorite memory from this season was how the upper classmen took me under their wings and helped me through this season."

Boys' Swimming and Diving

just keep swimming

This season, the boys showed hearts of gold, swimming with passion and determination, fighting through tough competition to a sixth place finish at state. Six seniors led the team this year, pushing the lowerclassman to victory. For most of these boys, swimming is not just a sport or hobby. It's a passion that several seniors intend to pursue while at college.

One of the fiercest meets was sectionals where Penn placed first against nine other schools with a score of 447. A powerhouse duo in freestyle relays was Kyle Morris, 11, and Matyi Kovacs, 12, which helped lead Penn to victory. "That race hurt. A lot. My legs were sore, but I knew it was really close, so I just put my head down and went for it," Morris told the South Bend Tribune. A senior captain, Adam Wait, completed Penn's victory in the grueling 500 yard freestyle. All the boys gave it their best, setting Penn up to win sectionals and head to state with momentum.

The IHSAA State Swimming and Diving Championships in Indianapolis in February saw fierce competition from rivals Carmel and Chesterton. Penn swimmers gave a solid showing, placing sixth overall.

Diving for the Gold

"This season was full of positive growth for everyone."

-Kionna Clayton

It's important to stay hydrated between events.

The smaller the splash, the higher the score.

Coach Preston's high expectations helped the girls' team win their sectional.

Look up the word endurance in the dictionary, and there should be a picture of the Lady Kingsmen Swim Team. These girls logged hundreds of thousands of yards in the pool, before school, after school, and on weekends. Powering through sore shoulders and hair and skin that smells of chlorine, these girls remain focused on one goal: to drop enough time in their events to help the team get to state. By the end of the season, they have swum to Chicago and back. The hours of pre-dawn practices and mileage paid off, as once again, Penn took home the Sectional championship.

When asked how the sport has impacted her life, Sophomore breaststroker Kionna Clayton explained, "The girls are like a big family, seeing as we spend so much time together. The coaches are extremely supportive with everything we do and even though we spend 20+ hours practicing each week, they still stress the fact that swimming is an extracurricular activity and that school is our number one priority. Penn swimming teaches perseverance in and out of the pool which I think is an important characteristic that we'll be able to carry beyond high school and Penn swimming."

Coach Harper led the Varsity squad through an undefeated season, conquering every team that posed a threat. With strict self-discipline, the boys approached each practice with determination. A strong group of senior leadership combined with first-rate coaching helped the Kingsmen sweep a sectional, regional, and semi-state championship. The culmination of their hard work and dedication produced seven wrestlers who advanced to the state finals. The team reached its pinnacle with a first in school history—the coveted state championship. In addition to the team state championship, the team produced two individual state champions, Chase Osborn and Kobe Woods - first individual state champions for Penn High School in 44 years. The 2014-2015 wrestling team lived up to their motto of "Kingsmen Strong".

"I've practiced for about 2-3 months with my dad since he suggested that I do this act, so I would like to thank him."

-Jane Payton

"The audition is a little scary but everyone there is feeling the same things you are. Also, forget about winning. It's not about winning at all, it's about showing your family and peers how awesome you are at doing something you love, and being proud of yourself."

-Emily Haluda

"I'd, of course, like to thank my co-host Alienna for acting like a goof with me, and my parents for supporting it."

-Mary Ahearn

"We would like to thank all of our family and friends for coming out and supporting us, and our fellow talent show participants for making it a wonderful night"

-Roger Johnson

"I don't like flowers, so after the show my parents brought me bunches of carrots and wrapped them up like flowers. That was a riot!"

-Billie Bennett

"I would like to thank all of the other acts that were in the talent show for working hard and making me feel proud to go to a school with so much talent."

-Chase Andreae

"Andre Boulay is a popular yo-yo guy that I watch videos of, but I'm not famous like him because there are ups and downs."

-Kevin Wang

"When I'm playing, I try not to imagine what other people think of my performance and just play in the moment. All that matters in the end is whether the music sounds good to me. If I like it, the audience will probably like it too."

-Grant Brenner

"I would like to thank Will Ferrell for writing the skit (no joke-he's a genius) and also Brodie because he is such an amazing supporter and an even better friend."

Spring

Hello SPRING! After another bitter winter, Penn High School students were uber excited when the snows melted and the world started to turn green again. Some lucky students left Mishawaka, Indiana, for exotic locations while others stayed closer to home. Whether Spring Break meant the sunny beaches of Florida or the powder of the Rocky Mountains, students would agree that the change of pace and the break from studies was much needed and much appreciated. With Hearts of Gold, many juniors and seniors finalized plans for another spring tradition, prom! Once break ended, we were back at it, wrapping up the school year of 2014-2015. "Spring is nature's way of saying LET'S PARTY!", expressed Zoe Will, 10th.

"It takes a village for in this case a large cast, orchestra pit, a group of techies, and some amazing directors to pull off a great show, and that's what we did!" Lauren McCarthy, 12

"After losing 3 consecutive dress rehearsals and still putting on a brilliant show, it just goes to prove how much the Penn Fine Arts department is capable of," Alenna Worthen, 12

"42nd Street was a brilliant show, because it offered each of us challenges and we worked twice as hard to overcome them. The final outcome was better than I could have ever dreamed," Broderick Batsley, 11

Spring
Musical

42ND STREET

Penn Drama Club met their dancing feet as they performed the annual spring musical, 42nd Street. This show had one of Penn's biggest casts ever, with over 100 actors, as well as an excellent tech crew, and full pit orchestra. This show revolves around the cast of a Broadway show who has to band together to make their debut, despite the lead of the show breaking her ankle and not being able to perform. The theme of this show could not have been more fitting, as Penn's cast also faced tremendous obstacles when two out of three performances were postponed due to school cancellations and inclement weather. The cast took to social media, starting a hashtag on Twitter called "#OperationSave42ndStreet" to gather support and save their show. With support from all over the state, these Kingsmen showed their true hearts of gold. The performances, which were rescheduled to later in the weekend, went off flawlessly. The cast, who began rehearsals in late November, learned over 20 musical and dance numbers, and performed them with effortless skill and energy. Overall, despite all the hurdles along the way, everyone involved with 42nd Street banded together to create a fantastic show that will be remembered for years to come. After all, the show must go on, right?

"Being in 42nd street has been easily the best experience I have had at Penn. I was apprehensive at first, but I'm glad I performed with my friends that will last forever," Brooke Connady, 11.

"One of the most incredible experiences of my performing life and I couldn't be happier with the outcome," Alyse Caumo, 11.

Welcome to the Art Gallery

As one of seven full-time art teachers at Penn, Mrs. Miller has a love for all types of art. Known for saying that every area of art is her favorite, she shared, "We are just so lucky to have this, and to have a principal who believes in the arts, and to have such a wonderful art department in the high school. We have half professional and half student work in here. That is unheard of. There are very few schools that have this nationwide. Every show is different. Every art form is different. Every show has different things to offer everyone who comes to see it. We have a lot of kids submit their work and many regionally known artists display their work here, and it touches so many people. This is why I wanted to have an art gallery."

Varsity Baseball

The Varsity Baseball team put their hard work and dedication on the plate to capture a season record of 26 - 9. Strong pitching and defense was the cornerstone of this talented team. At the Riley game, down 0 - 4 at the bottom of the 7th, they fired back with five runs. Nolan Metcalf finished the night by getting the walk off hit to win it for Penn. Leadership played a huge role in their success this season. With two seniors, the fewest number of seniors in Penn baseball history, Tim Lira and Brooks Ullery led the team by keeping players on track, teaching them how to act like a team, supporting each other, rebounding after a disappointment, and thinking positively. The Kingsmen were able to beat St. Joe 3-1 to win the NIC Championship on May 20. The first Sectional game took place May 28th at Plymouth. Penn beat Adams, 5 - 0. The second Sectional, also at Plymouth, was against South Bend Riley on Saturday May 30th. With Penn leading 2-1 after the 6th inning, the rains came causing the game to be postponed with one inning left to play. It would be finished on Monday, June 1st, with the Kingsmen scoring 4 runs in the 7th and winning 6-1. The sectional finals were played on Tuesday, June 2nd with the Kingsmen dominating Plymouth 5-0. The boys claimed Regional victory in a 3-1 win over Chesterton at Laporte on Saturday, June 6, followed by a Semi-State win over Homestead the next weekend. The historic season culminated in a State win over Terre Haute North, 3-2, and the Kingsmen returned home as the 2014 - 2015 State Champions!

ROAD TO VICTORY FIELD

Indianapolis-bound Kingsmen

Victory Field in Indianapolis was the scene for the showdown between the Penn Kingsmen and the Patriots of Terre Haute North.

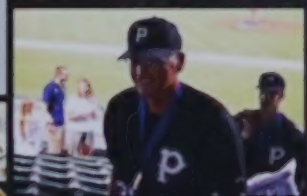

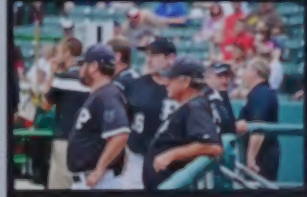

STATE CHAMPIONS!

June 20, 2015, Penn Baseball made a 4th appearance at the Class 4A State Championship game, and all have been with Coach Greg Dikos at the helm. The last state title was in 2001, and so it was time. Heeding Coach's advice to, 'cherish every moment,' and respect the game, the boys brought heart and soul to the showdown with Terre Haute North. In front of screaming fans, the Kingsmen defeated Terre Haute, 3-2, and with class and pride, they accepted the championship trophy. Tim Lira was a recipient for the LV Phillips Mental Attitude Award, one of the most prestigious awards given in high school sports. Great job, Boys. See you next season!

These two teams have been pushing themselves to and beyond their limits, working their absolute hardest and toughest every practice and game. "I'm very proud of this team's resilience," Coach Westra commented about JV. "They've worked very hard and continued to learn throughout this season." On May 21st, the JV team clobbered Concord 13-7, really demonstrating how working as a team can result in a win. James Morri drove in 5 runs while Ryan Lau followed with 4 more runs. The future of Penn Baseball is bright with the talent on this team.

Ryan Lau

"I've worked hard in practice, focusing on hitting and pitching specifically. Taking time out of the weekend along with regular practice time has helped take my play to the next level."

Payton Kerr

"My biggest challenge this year is being a freshman on a JV team. What motivates me are the people at the next level of the game. I know they had to work hard to get where they are, so I know I will have to as well."

Girls' Varsity Softball

Spring is the season for softball, though these girls prep for spring year round. Early morning practices, team breakfasts, an hours after school on the field transform the team into a tight-knit family. This teamwork came together as the lady sluggers clinched the NIC and went on to capture the Sectional Championship, 6 - 1 against Mishawaka. Riding that momentum, they slid into Regionals, winning 14 - 1 against Concord. Next was Semi-state, 6/6/15 @ W. Lafayette where they won 4-1 over Homestead. However, heartbreak followed with a 7 - 2 loss to Lake Central making Penn the semistate runner-ups with a season record of 27 and 3.

Fourteen girls on the JV softball team worked hard this year to make the season the best it could be. Like a guest who has worn out his welcome, winter still made an appearance in Spring with snow falling in the early season. However, no matter what the weather was like and despite the snow, they kept their heads in the game and their hearts full of gold. The Lady Kingsmen had many wins and a few losses. JV played a great game against Concord winning with a score of 8-2. Another big win was when number one ranked Penn beat number two ranked, Crown Point, 6-0. Penn also beat Lake Central by a close score of 8-6. In just three innings, Penn clobbered John Adams 19-3. JV also beat other Northern Indiana schools, Clay and Marian, before taking home the NIC championship title. These girls had to face the cold temperatures early on, where they were forced to practice in the parking lot because of snow, but that didn't stop them from having a victorious, golden season.

"Rain, rain, go away...we have a game today," varsity coach, Beth Zachary, tweeted before one March game for JV and Varsity. It wasn't just rain these girls had to face though. They had snow and chilly temperatures, but eventually the sun broke and allowed the girls to play in warmer, better weather. Rain or shine, snow or sun, they worked their way towards a respectable season, with winning results.

Time to ParTEE

The 2014-2015 Kingsmen Golfers have been hard at work practicing their swings and perfecting the courses. These student athletes are always laughing, cracking jokes, and having fun on the course. Although they enjoy their time together, golf is serious to them. The guys shared that the best part about golf was spending time with each other and learning new techniques from each other.

Seth Campbell, 10th, said that this was his first year playing with the Penn Boys' Golf team. He went on to share that he started playing and practicing golf at 3-years-old. His grandfather taught him the basics of golf. His advice for anyone who is considering joining the golf team is to practice as much as you can and to also be open to learning new things.

You've met your match.

The Penn Girls' Tennis team served up an exciting season for their fans, advancing all the way to Regional competition. April started strong, with win after win, until the Saint Joe match resulted in their first loss; however, the Lady Kingsmen bounced back the next day at Clay and proceeded to dominate each week after that. On May 13th, they backhanded Riley 5 - 0, with singles players Tayla Brown, Amanda Ahmed, and Krista Smith slamming their opponenets, while doubles teams Haylei Snelson-Lauren McCarthy and Holly Spiritoso-Jen Schwartz delivered solid performances, as well. At Sectionals, Penn blocked Mishawaka and won Sectionals with a victory over Marian.

The girls' season ended May 26th against Regional opponent and rival Saint Joe, with a tough 3-2 loss. With a 20-2 season record, Penn Girls' Tennis has every reason to be proud as they look forward to next season.

This year's team has a healthy crop of fresh, young faces who all have one thing in common, and that is an outstanding work ethic. Every member of Penn Boys' Track has contributed to the team in a big way. "The guys have been practicing pretty hard and that's all a coach could ask for!" exclaimed Coach Carroll. It was expected that this team would work hard due to the size of newcomers, but improving each and every meet was beyond what anyone would have expected. "Every athlete is doing what we ask of them and they continue to make improvements," Coach Carroll commented. "Track and Field isn't just a high school sport, however. It also teaches life lessons. If you set a goal, you are going to have to work towards it in order to achieve and conquer your target. This team has really been able to set goals and high standards for themselves and for the entire team. They have really been there for one another in a motivational way. They have each others' backs, and that's what a team is all about."

Talent and discipline were abundant in this year's girls' track and field team. Despite one tough loss, the Lady Kingsmen dominated their meets and invitational. They not only set records, but won the Princess City Relay, triumphed at the NIC championship, and sent several athletes to state. Regional champs included Mikayla Woods for long jump, Maddie Hendershot for high jump, Emma Jankowski for the 1600, and Lauren Frank for the 3200. Additionally, the team sent the 4 X 400 and the 4 X 800 relays to the state meet at IU's track and field facilities in Bloomington. This is a great place for all the athletes to get experience in a collegiate environment which may be in their futures. The 400 relay took 6th place, 800 relay took 3rd, and Emma Jankowski's 1600 m run came in at a respectable 8th place finish. The future is sure looking bright for these dedicated athletes.

This season the boys battled a tough beginning but they didn't let early losses get to them. The boys worked as hard as they could to improve, and improve they did, winning the next nine matches. Their hard work paid off, and the boys ended their season with a 10-7 record. The Kingsmen then moved into playoffs and played their first game against rival St. Joe, coming out victorious with an overtime score of 13-12 against the Indians. This is the first time ever that Penn has beat St. Joe in lacrosse history. Next, the Kingsmen traveled to Carmel to play in the second round. Though they played with passion, they ultimately came up short, losing 21-1 and concluding their season. Overall, the boys worked hard and ended with a great season.

Trust. Love. Commitment.

This season, the girls fought hard and played strong and ended the season with a 9-7 record. Throughout the spring, the girls faced some tough losses as well as some rewarding wins. Coming close to Fishers, Park Tutor, Zionsville, and Center Grove was tough, but they played hard throughout those games. Winning against rival Portage Northern, who in the year before required triple overtime, was a great accomplishment for the girls. Another triumphant moment occurred against SB Saint Joe on Saint Joe's home field, a hard-fought 17-13 win. On senior night, the girls battled Heritage Christian, and it was brutal but once again, they played with passion and came out strong. This season had several close games, but each time, the girls persevered played their very best until the clock ran down. There are three seniors who are continuing their lacrosse career in college. Emma Barnes is going to Ursuline College in Ohio; Alex Burke is going to Trine University in Indiana, and Nicole Polhamus is going to the United States Military Academy at Westpoint.

BOYS RUGBY

Don't play for what your jersey says on the back, play for what it says on the front

Penn Rugby is a prestigious club sport at Penn. With an average roster of 60 players, these boys meet for practice from December to June, every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 4:30 to 6:30. From frost bite to sunburn, they dedicate themselves to building their skills and their strength and their chemistry as a team. These dedicated athletes traveled to Charlotte, North Carolina for a tournament this spring, missing the fun of Prom for the grit and glory of national tournament play. Despite the sacrifice, the weekend was still a resounding success as the team placed 4th in the nation. On Saturday, May 29th, 2015, the boys met at the field one more time for the state tournament. Their national experience helped them to edge past three-time national champ Royal Irish in a 19-17 win and a state title. British exchange student Harry Stevens described the season as amazing and he really enjoyed playing rugby for Penn. Penn Rugby's head coach is Bart Bott and assistant coaches are Larry Smith, Tom Shelley, Chris Shelley, Carl Case, Tom Messner, and Bob Tidey. Congratulations to All Penn Rugby staff and players for their successful season.

April 23, 24, & 26, Penn Theatre took the stage one last time for the school year in their annual Children's Play. This year, they performed East of the Sun West of the Moon, a show about love and acceptance of others, no matter the consequences. The show starts off with an evil troll queen to reveals that she has cursed a prince into marrying her daughter by turning him into a bear by day, and a prince by night. The catch is that if anyone sees him as a human, the prince will be cursed forever and will have to marry the troll princess. Of course, like all fairytales, there must be a conflict and this comes about when the bear meets a young girl who he falls in love with. The show shares the prices people are willing to pay to get what they want and just how much someone will do for the one they love. East of the Sun, West of the Moon is a show to be remembered with a fantastic cast and crew that left the crowd wanting more.

PENN STOCK

Pennstock, Penn's annual recreation of the iconic Woodstock festival that took place in the summer of 1969, was an event like no other. The event, offered to U.S. History classes, is normally two days of music, speeches, and interactive booths that give students a hands-on perspective of what life in the 1960's was really about and how the hippie culture influenced the time period. Students dressed up for their classes complete with tie-dye, peace signs, and their official Pennstock t-shirts. In order to prepare for the event, students are given a task to either pose as a famous band from the time and perform a song, portray a famous activist and give a speech, or prepare a booth with propaganda to convince others to support their cause. By taking an active role, Pennstock offers a unique experience for all students and makes this their most memorable assignment by far. This event is the most highly-anticipated part of junior year for many students and they will remember it for years on end. There are several other Pennstock students who find a way to come out and watch the Pennstock festivities take place, even if they aren't enrolled in the U.S. History classes. This year was one of the more unusual Pennstock experiences, as it actually had to extend to three days due to unfortunate weather conditions. The constant rain in the afternoons caused Pennstock to be finished in the school building, but the enthusiastic performers would not let up. They exercised the protest mentality of the 60's, and were able to finish Pennstock inside. This was also the first year that all U.S. History classes were able to participate in the event, which is unusual because many years there are some teachers who choose not to participate. Overall, Pennstock was a great way to end off the school year with three days of fun as well as a memorable experience that the juniors will not soon forget.

Yoko Ono and John Lennon stage a 'bed-in' for peace as a nonviolent protest of the Vietnam War at Penn Stock 2014-2015.

Q: What was the goal you wanted students to accomplish when coming up with their projects?

Mr. Ball

A: "Our goal is for the students to get an appreciation for the time of the 1960's, the carefree attitude, the youth movement, also understanding all the protests and activists there were at this time."

Dance Classic is a spring show performed by the students in Penn's dance classes. Students sweat it out on the wooden floor, pirouetting, plieing, and arabesqueing until they move as one. The show consisted of two parts, and the second part was full of Disney movie theme songs. The show appealed to everyone but especially little audience enjoyed the show very much.

Most days, you can hear Mr. Dutton whistling before you see him.

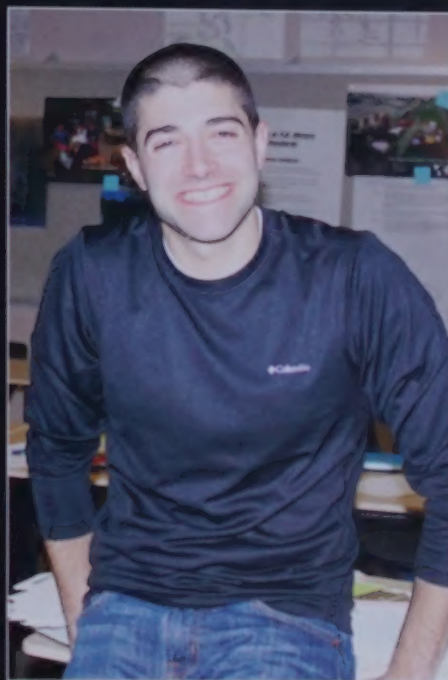

Mrs. Hope shows off her lovely turkey legs for a good cause.

You would not want to upset this dodgeball team. They are ninjas at dodge, duck, dip, dive, and dodge!

Mr. Martin's so cool, you might need a hoodie.

Don't let the smile deceive you. Mr. Cantoni runs a tight ship!

Mr. Schmidt dresses up for his favorite holiday.

Miss Armstrong wants YOU to be cooler than cool and submit to Spectrum.

Mrs. Black keepin' it real in the English hallway.

Mr. Martin and Ms. Adkins enjoy the holiday photo booth in the World Languages division office.

Whether it's dressing up for a cause or playing a game for learning, Penn teachers like to have fun. On any given day, you can walk into a class, and chances are, you'll be smiling before you leave."

We love you.
Mom, Dad, and Brooke

NATALIE GRACE LETHBRIDGE

Dear Natalie,

It hasn't been easy for you the past 13 years going to 9 different schools, moving all over for Daddy's job--but you Persevered! You have come through with flying colors, making many friends wherever you go, always the life of the party, putting a smile on everyone's face. One minute you are a friend consoling another offering mature, sound, advice as if you have decades of life experience already and the next minute you are crying real tears at any Disney movie, all wrapped up in a blanket, wishing Jasmine and Aladdin could marry in real life!

From Daddy's little Pie Face with chubby cheeks, bangs and the biggest smile around to a smart, beautiful young woman about to make any dream she wants come true. We are behind you forever and wherever your dreams lead you Natalie and know that the world is a better place with you in it.)

We love you,

Daddy, Mommy, Hannah, Noah, Katie, JoJo, Poky and Chewy. xxxo

Dream Big Nat!

Madison Joan Woods

Madison,

We have loved watching you grow up and admire the young adult that you have become. You have worked hard, persevered and accomplished so much. Your best days are ahead of you. You will do outstanding things at Ohio State.

Love, Dad & Mom O-H-I-O!!

Shelley Zhang

*Shelley, you are awesome.
There is a big world in front of you.
We hope you are always happy.
Mom and Dad are proud of you!*

Erin Vaughan

We always knew you would be a star!!
We're so proud of ALL you have accomplished!

Love,
Mom, Dad and Caitlin

Steve Hope, Principal

Congratulations to the Class of 2015. As you advance to the next stages of your life, whether that involves university, the military, or work towards a career, know that your teachers at Penn are proud of you, and we celebrate with you for your hard work and accomplishments. You have graduated from one of Indiana's finest schools. Many Kingsmen have gone on to leave a significant impact on the world, and we are excited about what lies ahead for you. We look forward to hearing from you.
